

GREEN MANUAL

A minimum of green cultural production

The organiser of cultural events is obliged to comply with the following:

Communicate to your team members the goal of minimizing and properly sorting waste.

Provide a waste sorting station with properly marked collection bins for proper sorting and associated communication to the public.

Provide a system of returnable cups if drinks are served at the event.

Provide bicycle racks (especially for locations where there are no bicycle racks in the vicinity).

If returnable food/drink containers cannot be used, use compostable (certified) or recyclable containers. Only wooden cutlery must be provided for the consumption of these products.

Not to sell/offer merch at the event that does not comply with the pre-agreed rules. Also take care to select vendors according to the agreed rules (products should not be disposable and should be Ecolabel certified or GOTS certified in the case of t-shirts, sweatshirts, etc.).

Ensure printing on recyclable paper wherever possible as part of the implementation.

When programming the event, avoid props such as confetti, balloons, fireworks and similar disposable products that create a significant negative ecological footprint.
